

HUDSON RIVER SLOOP

"Clearwater," 76-foot replica of a 19th century Hudson River sloop, begins her maiden voyage.

The "Clearwater" is already a reality for the Hudson River. And its purpose is to make clear water, literally, a reality for the Hudson once more.

"Clearwater" is a unique replica of a traditional 19th century sloop of a type which plied the Hudson in great numbers but has not been seen on the waterway for over fifty years. The sloop has been built for the Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc. "A creative anti-pollution measure," its purpose is to focus attention on the river as a source of pleasure and beauty, to enlist public support against the spread of pollution and to emphasize the need for conservation. It will also form a permanent floating historical museum.

The project has been fomented by Pete Seeger, the folk singer, among others. A resident of Beacon Valley, N.Y., in the Hudson Valley area, he is a prime mover of the restoration group.

The sloop was built by the Harvey F. Gamage Shipyard, South Bristol, Me., famous among Maine's traditional shipbuilders. It is a 76½-foot-long, oak-planked vessel, with a beam of 24 feet six inches, and displaces 96 tons. It carries nearly 5,000 square feet of sail on a 108-foot mast and topmast.

It was launched in May 1969, at ceremonies attended by the governor of Maine, Kenneth M. Curtis. The maiden voyage was from Maine down the coast to New York, during late June and all of July. Pete Seeger and singers crewed and gave fund-raising concerts at the various ports of call on the way. The sloop has cost over $150,000, more than half of which has already been raised by public subscription.

The "Clearwater" program then continued with two or three days at the beginning of August on view in New York, at the South Street restoration, the site of a historical recreation of part of the harbor as it was a century or two ago.

The final phase was for the sloop to begin plying the Hudson, up and down as far as Albany, with volunteer crews (a 10-man crew is carried). Communities along the 160-mile run are visited to attract support for the vital work of conservation.

The first Hudson River sloop to be built in over 60 years is launched at South Bristol, Me.

Calf-Length Fashion Shown

PARIS (AP) — Givenchy struck his usual standard of elegance today at his fall and winter fashion showing—the gold standard, with copper, steel and silver thrown in, even on his calf-length group.

The calf-length hemlines in slender models are shown for every hour. They look good and evoke a pre-World War I atmosphere, striped of clutter, belts on his coats, which drew particular applause, are at the natural waistline, thus elongating the silhouette. For coat materials he used black wool for city wear, white jersey for sports with its own scarf, gold brocade for evening, many times in fur and two in melon or coffee leather.

Givenchy has lots of fun with fur. He dyes it bright colors and tailors it smoothly like fabric. In orange, green, brown, navy, green, coral pink and all the melon shades.

Depending on hour and occasion, simple long-sleeved dresses with fine draped neck, or belted shirtwaist lines are matched in color. Broadtail, lamb, and even mink show in a wide orange border hemline.

Givenchy numbers many chic matrons among his clientele. For them he makes terribly chic under a state cocktail through-dinner dresses. Several black ones have a crossover surprise panel stiffened and squared off at the side. Others are on the softly draped sheath order, with diamond pointed kerchiefs, fishtail hemlines, short shawls, and correspondingly shaped overdresses or panels.

The best in the slinky crepe evening group is in white with a shrug bolero trimmed in black velvet water lilies. Chains of pearl beads and mock diamond pendants enhance the millionaire look. Shoes sometimes match pastel dresses.

Romanian Still First a Communist

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Speaking to a group of visiting Americans two days before the arrival of President Nixon, Communist party chief Nicolae Ceausescu declared that "ultimately capitalism will have to make way for socialism (communism) throughout the world."

His statement underlined the fact that Ceausescu, despite his battle for independence from Moscow in the fields of foreign and economic policy, is still a dedicated Communist.

He was answering a question by a member of the "American Professors for Peace" visiting him at Republic Palace Thursday. The professor had asked whether socialism and capitalism could coexist peacefully.

"This is a law which cannot be done away with, but the problem has to be solved by the own social forces and by people of each country," Ceausescu said, referring to what he called the ultimate triumph of socialism.

Treaties

The practice of negotiating treaties began as early as 3000 B.C., when ancient rulers signed treaties with neighboring kingdoms. Some treaties ended wars and others settled boundary disputes.

Discovered Gold

James Marshall, an employee of John Sutter, was actually the first to discover gold on the American River in California. He was building a sawmill at the time of his accidental discovery.

The skinniest short sleeves cap the little girl peasant dress (left). The neckline is a garden of wild flowers in burnt gold and is loosely laced together. The print of the snug top plunges to a lifted waist, grape and white. Wild flowers explode at random on the long soft jumpsuit (right). The plunging neckline is lightly laced together, the sleeves are flowing and end in a border of flowers that also edges the soft long pants. These designs in Caprolon Touch nylon are by Stan Herman for Mr. Mort.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

THEY SPLIT OVER POLITICS

Dear Helen: I am stumped, lonely and depressed. My girl and I were to have been married in September, but suddenly I received the good old Dear John letter. Her only reasons to end it were our "gut level political differences," and the fact that she can't live with the state of the world and I can. She is an idealist and I am a realist. She says the twain will never meet. I always thought our differences complimented each other. We enjoyed arguing. I find I am drinking more than I should, dating girls I don't care for, and generally being miserable. What can I do to get her back?—CHAD

Dear Chad: I think your girl is using feminine persuasion ("If you don't, you'll lose me,"

Author Tested For Own Story

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)

Robert Westbrook, wearing what looked like the top of an old undershirt, is a 23-year-old phenomenon. He has written a book—"The Magic Garden of Stanley Sweetheart"—which was bought by producer Martin Poll.

Westbrook wrote the screenplay. He is associate producer. And there is a chance he may star in it—at least, he'll be one of six unknown actors Poll is testing for the lead role.

He doesn't really want to be an actor, but he thinks he could play this part, because it is basically autobiographical.

He is definitely part of the "now" scene—that alleged shirt, and then he had wrapped around his left wrist a piece of string with a pebble on it. He said it wasn't anything special, just something he'd bought at a boutique in New York. The pebble, he said, was a voodoo thing, presumably to ward off evil subways.

Anyhow, Westbrook—the son of columnist Sheila Graham—started writing his novel when he was in Italy. He had been an assistant director on "The Appointment," saved up a few hundred dollars and was happily doing nothing. To give himself something to do in the afternoons, he started writing.

Within a few months, he had a novel. He showed it to his mother as proof that he wasn't just loafing and she showed it to her agent and he showed it to a publisher and the next thing Westbrook knew he was in Hollywood, wearing an undershirt and a piece of string with a pebble on it, and he may be this town's next Orson Welles.

One girl's pregnancy is another girl's opportunity. Deanna Lund, one of the two pretties on Land of the Giants, is doing more on the ABC show this season because Heather Young is pregnant, and they're only showing her from the shoulders up for the time being.

"So I'm getting better parts this year," Deanna says. "There was no way they could account for Heather's pregnancy—after all, we're a family show."

John Wilson, who is executive producer of the animated "archy and mehitabel," says that this is the dawn of a big-time era for animated film.

"The industry," he says, "is on the threshold of a big time. We're in the position Walt Disney was when he did 'Steamboat Willie'—was that 30 years ago? We can really move forward and tell wonderful stories, with wonderful new techniques."

"The only problem is that we're trapped—trapped by the old cat-and-mouse kind of stories, and trapped by so many people in the business still thinking the way they thought 30 years ago."

Wilson believes animation can be used to tell sophisticated literary stories. His "archy" is that kind of film, he says there are even lady-bugs-of-the-evening. And ahead for his Fine Arts Films are many ambitious projects—including an animated version of Dylan Thomas' "Under Milk Wood."

Laugh-In's Arte Johnson is getting tired of saying "Verry interesting." So he—being the inventive comic he is—sat down and dreamed up some substitutes, which he suggested to the show's production staff.

"I came up with 18 potential substitutes," he says. Verry interesting—but dubious.

THE "GNOMON" KNOWS. This color-striped aluminum stick is scheduled for a trip to the moon with the Apollo 11 astronauts, who will frame it within their photographs of the moon so that scientists can compare its color with those of the lunar surface. It was developed by engineers at NASA's Manned Space Center in Houston, Tex., who call it a "gnomon"—Greek for "one who knows." A Hughes technician sprays the gnomon with inorganic paint which will resist ultraviolet radiation and withstand the moon's 250-degree temperature.

ABM Vote Is Set for Next Week

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Both sides in the long Safeguard debate have agreed to a Senate vote next Tuesday or Wednesday on whether to bar deployment of the defensive missile system.

The outcome of the showdown remains in doubt with the Senate divided almost equally on an administration-opposed amendment limiting the Safeguard program to research.

Sens. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and Albert Gore, D-Tenn., who blocked an earlier vote, said they are ready for a vote next week.

The Senate laid the anti-ballistic missile — ABM — measure aside late Wednesday for the first time since July 8 in order to work today on the income surtax.

As soon as that is finished, the Senate is to return to the military procurement authorization bill which includes $759.1 million for Safeguard.

As the ABM showdown neared, Safeguard opponents claimed their 50th vote—one short of that needed to approve an amendment if the entire Senate should vote. The office of Sen. Warren G. Magnuson confirmed that the veteran Washington Democrat would oppose the ABM.

Although Magnuson was listed as leaning strongly against the ABM, he had not been included in the 49 votes claimed earlier for the amendment of Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

The opponents include in their number Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who is formally uncommitted but has indicated privately he is opposed to the ABM.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., has declined to state his position, and Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., listed earlier as for Safeguard, insists he too is uncommitted. The other 48 senators are counted as for the ABM.

Gore said a tie vote seems in prospect, while Fulbright said he is optimistic. An amendment would lose on a tie.

There was no immediate indication that any minds were changed Wednesday by a disarming subcommittee review of three secret Pentagon studies of missile defenses or the showing of a film intended to illustrate the vulnerability of an

HEAR THESE WORDS

Worship In Church Every Week

Firmly Rooted

How strong are your roots? In Sequoia National Park one may read: "These Sequoia Gantea are of a noble lineage which bridges humanity back through eons of the age of reptiles. — Here dwell venerable forest kings in reveries which carry back a thousand years before Jesus Christ walked the shores of Galilee." How strong are your roots? "That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, May be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; And to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fullness of God." These reflect being well rooted. In a spirit of unity let us read: "Unto Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout the ages, world without end. A-men." — Eph. 3: 17-19, 21.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. You in the Church and the Church in you. Form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

HOPE NEWSPAPER HISTORY:
The 1929 consolidation joined the two principal newspaper lines dating back to within five years of Hope's incorporation in 1875.

1899 — Star of Hope founded as a weekly by Claude Mc-Corkle; converted to an evening daily by his son, Ed. McCorkle, publishing until the 1929 consolidation.

The opposition line:
1880 — Hope News founded by Lowry Brothers.

1883 — Sold to Withers & Johnson, name changed to Hope Telegraph.

1883 — Later in same year resold to Claude McCorkle and renamed Hope Mercury.

1884 — Sold to James H. Betts, who named it Hope Gazette, under which name it was published continuously until 1922, published by
Betts, J.L. Tullis, and Col. W.W.
Folsom the last-named dying in 1916.

1916 — Purkins & Gates bought the weekly Gazette and made it a companion paper to their new daily, Arkansas Evening Herald
—but both papers suspended in 1922.

1926 — Plant was revived by Curtis Cannon as the weekly
Hempstead County Review.

1927 — Cannon sold plant to D.A. Gean, who established the morning Hope Daily Press.

1929 — C. E. Palmer and A.H.
Washburn consolidated The Star and the Press as Hope Star, with Palmer as president and Washburn secretary-treasurer.

1957 — Following Mr. Palmer's death Mrs. Palmer became president.

1969 — With Mrs. Palmer's retirement from Star Publishing Co. Washburn became 76 per cent owner and president —balance 24 per cent being held by Texarkana Newspapers, Inc.

The H in the code word ARCH stands for How can I make this hand in the case of declarers, and How can I beat this hand in the case of defenders.

When South looks over dummy, he visualizes a simple plan of campaign. He will go after the club suit when he gets an opportunity. Even if he loses the club finesse, he will wind up losing one club, one spade and one diamond.

Of course, there are complications if the club finesse works the first time it is tried, but in that case South can refuse to take it a second time and just lose two spades and a diamond. All in all, the prospects look good to South.

They also look pretty bad to West. He looks over dummy and does not care for what he sees. He asks himself the question, "How can I beat this contract?" Then he sees two possibilities. The first is to find his partner with the king and two small spades. In that case, he can lead his deuce of spades and collect three fast spade tricks.

The other possibility is to find his partner with the king of clubs and either the queen or 10 of spades. In this case, also, a spade lead is indicated. Therefore, West leads his deuce of spades and risks the loss of an overtrick or so in case South holds both black kings.

The lead settles South's hash. East's 10 of spades knocks out one of South's honors. Later on, East gets in with the king of clubs and gives his partner two spade tricks.

What do you do now?
A—Either jump right to six diamonds or bid four no-trump, intending to bid six diamonds if partner shows either one ace or two aces. You do not think of seven because your partner's rebid was one no-trump.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of rebidding one no-trump, your partner has rebid two clubs. What do you do now?

Won't Fight Research on ABM System

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two key Safeguard opponents say they will not challenge the Pentagon's award of a $249.6 million contract to continue development of the missile defense system as long as no deployment is involved.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., called the timing of the Thursday announcement "very interesting" since it came with a Senate showdown on the Safeguard issue less than a week away.

"If there is authority and there are funds available, it's correct as long as it's research," Cooper said.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said he thinks the Pentagon has the authority.

"If it's only research and development, then I would not challenge it," Gore said.

Cooper and Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., are sponsors of an amendment which would bar deployment of the Safeguard missiles or site acquisitions, but would approve $759.1 million for research and development of the antiballistic missile—ABM.

Some Safeguard opponents said the contract, while apparently legal, seemed an attempt to pressure against the amendment, scheduled for a vote Wednesday.

With this crucial showdown only six days off, the Pentagon announced Thursday night it was awarding the new contract to Western Electric Co.

"Without this extension all Safeguard research and development would halt as of Aug. 1," the Pentagon announcement said.

It stressed the new contract involves only research and development, not deployment, the key issue in the current Senate fight. The Pentagon cited a law which permits government agencies to continue work at the same level as in the previous fiscal year even though new funds have not yet been authorized.

The Pentagon said that the first $80 million was being obligated for work between Aug. 1 and Sept. 15.

The contract covers tests of the ABM's radar and Spartan and Sprint missiles at White Sands Missile Range, N.M., and Kwajalein Missile Range in the Marshall Islands.

Such research for the Safeguard would be permitted under the Cooper-Hart amendment which will be debated four hours next Tuesday and Wednesday before the key vote.

The outlook is still in doubt with ABM opponents claiming 50 votes—one short of the necessary 51 if all senators are present.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Gumboil Is Sign Tooth Is Abscessed

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE:

When my son was 2, he fell and chipped two upper front teeth. He's 5 now, and our dentist found a gumboil over one tooth. He wants to extract the tooth but my son says it doesn't hurt and the gumboil seems to have disappeared. Is it really necessary to extract the tooth?

Mrs. Jean H.

ANSWER: Your dentist's judgment is correct. A gumboil means the tooth is abscessed and abscessed baby teeth should be extracted for two main reasons: (1) to rid the body of infection; (2) to prevent possible damage to the permanent tooth that lies beneath it.

There's no reason not to extract it, unless it's contraindicated by your son's mental or physical condition at this time. Of course, he'll look funny when he smiles and shows a gap in front of his mouth, but at age 5 it's a normal show.

You mentioned that the gumboil seems to have disappeared. Outwardly it may seem to have cleared up but the cause of infection is still there and can only be properly eliminated by removing the tooth. Gumboils sometimes drain and heal only to break down soon again, repeating the process often.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE:

My son, 5, had to have a baby molar removed because of an abscess. The dentist wants to put a spacer in its place. Is that important?—Mrs. Shirley F.

ANSWER: When baby teeth are lost before their normal time, and many years remain before permanent teeth erupt, it's often necessary to "maintain the space" left by the extractions. If not, the tooth behind the space tends to move forward into it and may block the permanent tooth from coming up into normal position, or even prevent it from coming up at all. It may remain embedded in the jawbone.

"Spacers" are simple orthodontic appliances, consisting of a metal band with attached wire which is cemented onto the tooth behind the space, the wire engaging the tooth in front of the space. It's full name is space maintainer and its function is just that: it maintains space left by the extraction until the permanent tooth comes up to fill it.

(Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.)

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

The H in the code word ARCH stands for How can I make this hand in the case of declarers, and How can I beat this hand in the case of defenders.

When South looks over dummy, he visualizes a simple plan of campaign. He will go after the club suit when he gets an opportunity. Even if he loses the club finesse, he will wind up losing one club, one spade and one diamond.

Of course, there are complications if the club finesse works the first time it is tried, but in that case South can refuse to take it a second time and just lose two spades and a diamond. All in all, the prospects look good to South.

They also look pretty bad to West. He looks over dummy and does not care for what he sees. He asks himself the question, "How can I beat this contract?" Then he sees two possibilities. The first is to find his partner with the king and two small spades. In that case, he can lead his deuce of spades and collect three fast spade tricks.

The other possibility is to find his partner with the king of clubs and either the queen or 10 of spades. In this case, also, a spade lead is indicated. Therefore, West leads his deuce of spades and risks the loss of an overtrick or so in case South holds both black kings.

The lead settles South's hash. East's 10 of spades knocks out one of South's honors. Later on, East gets in with the king of clubs and gives his partner two spade tricks.

Won't Fight Research on ABM System

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two key Safeguard opponents say they will not challenge the Pentagon's award of a $249.6 million contract to continue development of the missile defense system as long as no deployment is involved.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., called the timing of the Thursday announcement "very interesting" since it came with a Senate showdown on the Safeguard issue less than a week away.

"If there is authority and there are funds available, it's correct as long as it's research," Cooper said.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said he thinks the Pentagon has the authority.

"If it's only research and development, then I would not challenge it," Gore said.

Cooper and Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., are sponsors of an amendment which would bar deployment of the Safeguard missiles or site acquisitions, but would approve $759.1 million for research and development of the antiballistic missile—ABM.

Some Safeguard opponents said the contract, while apparently legal, seemed an attempt to pressure against the amendment, scheduled for a vote Wednesday.

With this crucial showdown only six days off, the Pentagon announced Thursday night it was awarding the new contract to Western Electric Co.

"Without this extension all Safeguard research and development would halt as of Aug. 1," the Pentagon announcement said.

It stressed the new contract involves only research and development, not deployment, the key issue in the current Senate fight. The Pentagon cited a law which permits government agencies to continue work at the same level as in the previous fiscal year even though new funds have not yet been authorized.

The Pentagon said that the first $80 million was being obligated for work between Aug. 1 and Sept. 15.

The contract covers tests of the ARMS and Spartan and Sprint missiles at White Sands Missile Range, N.M., and Kwajalein Missile Range in the Marshall Islands.

Such research for the Safeguard would be permitted under the Cooper-Hart amendment which will be debated four hours next Tuesday and Wednesday before the key vote.

The outlook is still in doubt with ABM opponents claiming 50 votes—one short of the necessary 51 if all senators are present.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Gumboil Is Sign Tooth Is Abscessed

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: When my son was 2, he fell and chipped two upper front teeth. He's 5 now, and our dentist found a gumboil over one tooth. He wants to extract the tooth but my son says it doesn't hurt and the gumboil seems to have disappeared. Is it really necessary to extract the tooth?

Mrs. Jean H.

ANSWER: Your dentist's judgment is correct. A gumboil means the tooth is abscessed and abscessed baby teeth should be extracted for two main reasons: (1) to rid the body of infection; (2) to prevent possible damage to the permanent tooth that lies beneath it.

There's no reason not to extract it, unless it's contraindicated by your son's mental or physical condition at this time. Of course, he'll look funny when he smiles and shows a gap in front of his mouth, but at age 5 it's a normal show.

You mentioned that the gumboil seems to have disappeared. Outwardly it may seem to have cleared up but the cause of infection is still there and can only be properly eliminated by removing the tooth. Gumboils sometimes drain and heal only to break down soon again, repeating the process often.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE:

My son, 5, had to have a baby molar removed because of an abscess. The dentist wants to put a spacer in its place. Is that important?

Mrs. Shirley F.

ANSWER: When baby teeth are lost before their normal time, and many years remain before permanent teeth erupt, it's often necessary to "maintain the space" left by the extractions. If not, the tooth behind the space tends to move forward into it and may block the permanent tooth from coming up into normal position, or even prevent it from coming up at all. It may remain embedded in the jawbone.

"Spacers" are simple orthodontic appliances, consisting of a metal band with attached wire which is cemented onto the tooth behind the space, the wire engaging the tooth in front of the space. It's full name is space maintainer and its function is just that: it maintains space left by the extraction until the permanent tooth comes up to fill it.

Ad Tax Would Restrict Growth

It is likely that Florida legislators in their search for more money to spend will be looking again this year to taxing advertising. But it isn't as simple as that. One only has to stop and consider the ponderous labor required to tax all advertising and advertising-related business and items in Florida to see that this one point alone should be enough to stop further consideration of the subject.

Imagine for a moment how difficult it would become to stay impartial and fair to Florida businessmen because to do so all advertising coming into the state would have to be taxed as well as that originating here. This would mean all newspapers and magazines brought and sent into Florida would have to be taxed, along with all national radio and TV programs, all pieces of direct mail, and even trucks, railroad cars and airlines carrying advertising messages printed on them.

For a state built on advertising and promotion such a restrictive tax could possibly reverse our present growth pattern. This would seriously affect many businesses throughout the state. When business suffers, so do tax collections and progress. We became a great nation under the free enterprise system. Regulation and tax on advertising would stifle business.

This great state has huge tasks ahead of it, tasks in which business and industry will be the prime movers. But great tasks are never accomplished by a hamstrung free enterprise system. If great goals are to be reached we must find ways to keep our communicative free enterprise system free and clear of discriminatory taxes and unjust restrictions. — Fort Myers (Fla.) News-Press

Inferiority

A primary cause of the changing morals and mores in this country is revealed in a recent report of the Census Bureau. There are now 102 million females in this country, only 98 million males.

And this makes a difference, not only in congressional legislation, in elections, fashions and sun tan lotions, but also in the traditional privileges which are granted to both men and women.

For centuries man chased woman. Now women chase the men. Women all realize that no matter how fast they run there are going to be 4 million of them who get left. As long as there is even one more woman than there are men, the race will continue. There only hope is to produce more men. — Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel

Bill Against Bussing May Point Trend

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three provisions that could slow federal efforts to desegregate southern schools have been approved by the House.

The provisions, which still must be acted on by the Senate, would prohibit the government from forcing school districts to bus students or close schools, and would give statutory approval to freedom of choice desegregation plans.

Such plans, which permit a white student to refuse to attend a school with Negroes, have been held unconstitutional by the courts unless they lead to true desegregation.

The provisions were added to a $17.7 billion appropriations bill Thursday night by southern Democrats and a large group of Republicans, including all but one of the GOP leaders, Rep. John Anderson of Illinois.

The support by House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford drew sharp criticism from Clarence Mitchell, Washington NAACP representative.

"The vote proves there is a White Panther contingent in the Republican party led by Gerald Ford, with the complete approval of the White House," said Mitchell.

The Negro leader said the White House made a "deliberate decision" to stay out of the fight over the provisions.

Spacecraft Joins Crew in Quarantine

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The spacecraft Columbia and the three astronauts who flew it to the moon and back have been reunited in the lunar quarantine station.

Technicians moved the Apollo 11 command module into its bay in the lunar receiving laboratory Thursday night. Officials said the astronauts would be able to visit it and retrieve personal gear left on board when it splashed down in the Pacific.

The crew—Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.—spent Thursday giving a seminar on their mission to the Apollo 12 astronauts, who plan to go to the moon in November.

Charles Conrad, the Apollo 12 commander, asked Armstrong if he thought a program of two moon walks, both with a longer duration than Armstrong's stroll of 2 hours 32 minutes, was feasible.

"Neil told him it was," said John McLeish, a public relations officer in quarantine with the Apollo 11 crew.

The spacemen gave the mission report to their colleagues from behind a glass wall of the lunar receiving laboratory. Conrad, his crewmates Richard Gordon and Alan Bean, and several other astronauts listened from the outside.

Meanwhile scientists in another part of the laboratory injected specks of moon material into the bodies of 24 germ-free mice in an experiment intended to smoke out possible moon microbes.

If there are living microorganisms in the moon matter, scientists expect them to develop rapidly in the mice, since the little animals have no immunity to such bodily invaders.

EMK Takes Self Out, '72 Chaos Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's rejection of 1972 presidential aspirations could produce a Democratic political scramble—if it sticks.

But two potential participants in such a scramble aren't certain the Kennedy disclaimer is irrevocable.

And another Democratic senator suggests pressure from within the party could change Kennedy's mind.

Kennedy, returning to the Capitol for the first time since a tardily-reported, fatal automobile accident July 18, said repeatedly Thursday he would not run for the White House in 1972 under any circumstances.

In announcing his return, and his intention to run for re-election next year, the Massachusetts senator said if he wins another term, he will serve all six years. That would take him through 1976, past the next presidential race.

He wouldn't speculate about his long range political future. Theodore Sorensen, a long-time intimate and political adviser to the Kennedy family said Thursday night the senator realized the accident "damaged if not destroyed" his prospects for the 1972 presidential nomination.

Sitting Bull Polished Off General Custer, But Wrote Poetry, Too

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Discoveries are limitless, and surprisingly enough, they stretch in both directions of time. Every generation must rediscover many things, and by looking with new eyes, new viewpoints are presented regarding old topics. The results are usually a shakedown of prejudiced thoughts and a different opinion established.

This statement from the late W.S. Campbell of the University of Oklahoma may be as surprising to others as it was to this writer. "Sitting Bull was not only a warrior and a politician, but also a poet, and so rated by his own people."

What! That savage who wiped out Gen. George A. Custer and his troops at the Little Big Horn River! Yes, that's right. But Prof. Campbell thought it best to set us straight about the battle first and smooth our ruffled feathers of indignation.

In the first place, that battle was fought on June 25, 1876, right before our country's centennial celebration, and then the defeated general was the flower of cavaliers who had never lost a gun or a flag during the whole Civil War. Talk about poor timing! No wonder Sitting Bull (which, incidentally, is a common name among the Sioux Indians) never gets many kind thoughts from most of us.

The journalists of that day tried to "explain" the defeat by giving the Indian victor a fictitious West Point background and by claiming he was a student of Napoleon's campaigns. Ridiculous! Sitting Bull never was a cadet at West Point, and Napoleon himself had been baffled, in Russia, by conditions and tactics very similar to those which destroyed Custer.

So much for the genius of Sitting Bull on the field of battle. Does it seem a little hard to believe that a warrior such as he could also be a poet? Well, King David was pretty successful at both occupations, we know from the Psalms.

Indian poetry is different from many other peoples' with the possible exception of some Oriental works. Prof. Campbell explained. The reason for this is very little use of figures of speech, such as the metaphor. For instance, an Indian would have never described the sun as "a huge ball of fire" but his words were more apt to be literal and to the point such as "big, round, and hot."

The closeness of the Indian to Nature inspired his poetry. The birds were regarded by Sitting Bull as his relatives. He adopted them as a boy, after a yellow hammer warned him against a grizzly bear, thereby saving him from being murdered in his sleep.

A very typical song of the warlike Sioux was the "sad song" about men slain in battle. They also had a way of meeting emergencies with a song to create a mood. In later years while fighting beside other Americans in France, Sioux soldiers had first to sing a Brave-Heart song before they could bring themselves to go over the top.

Sioux poetry has the tremendous impact of reality, but, unfortunately, most of us can never feel the charm of it as the Indian feels it. Their poetry is in things, in everything, and is not a trick performed by sleight-of-words. To the Indian there was nothing common the earth, which is certainly what Keats must have had in mind when he said, "The poetry of earth is never dead."

Note: Yesterday, August 1, was the beginning of a 3-day inter-racial gathering in Sheridan, Wyo., All-American Indian Days, where the American Indian and his culture are receiving special recognition.

Tax Burden Would Be Cut for Poor

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Having completed a $7 billion tightening of the Internal Revenue Code, House tax reformers declared a tax relief dividend for all but the very rich.

Specialists for the House Ways and Means Committee forecast Thursday that by 1975 the reforms drafted by the panel would balance out with about $7 billion in new revenue and a like amount in tax reductions.

The first and biggest beneficiaries would be those at the low end of the income scale, but by 1972 all but the richest taxpayers—those with yearly incomes over $100,000—could look for at least a 5 per cent cut, the committee reported.

The bill—described by one member as bigger than a mail order catalog—is scheduled for House debate starting next Wednesday.

On the benefit side are general rate reductions in 1971 and 1972; special allowances to take some 2 million poor families off the tax rolls entirely, and tax cuts ranging up to 63 per cent in the lowest brackets.

The standard deduction, used by those who do not itemize would go up by 1972 from the present 10 per cent with a $1,000 ceiling, to 15 per cent with a $2,000 ceiling.

There are provisions to aid widows and widowers 15th children and single persons 35 or older who maintain households.

Nixon Visit To Romania Riles Reds

By PETER REHAK
Associated Press Writer

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — President Nixon began a visit to Romania today which he hopes will move the United States and the Communist bloc away from the hostility they viewed each other with during the Cold War era.

Arriving from Lahore, Pakistan, where he ended a six-nation Asian tour that included South Vietnam, Nixon became the first U.S. chief executive to visit a Communist country since Franklin D. Roosevelt went to Yalta in the Soviet Union 24 years ago to talk with Joseph Stalin.

After 27 hours here, the President will leave Sunday for the United States. On his way back to Washington, Nixon will stop in Britain and talk with Prime Minister Harold Wilson while his plane is refueled.

Nixon's visit to Romania has annoyed the Soviet Union, but Moscow has refrained from criticizing it directly. Its political implications may be felt for months.

Nixon arrived to a warm welcome from Romanian President and Communist party leader Nicolae Ceausescu who headed a delegation of 14 top officials.

In his formal greeting to the Romanian chief of state, Nixon said that the United States stands ready "to respond firmly and positively to sincere and concrete initiatives that others make."

"We are prepared to do our part, also, in the era of negotiations so that all in Europe can pursue to fulfillment their just aspirations for a better life, free from the fear of war or threats of war, in constructive cooperation with others, near and far."

The theme of his remarks was that the United States would not let the ideological gulf separating East and West prevent improvement of relations between Romania and America.

"I believe that if human beings can reach the moon, human beings can reach an understanding with each other on the earth," he said.

"If we are to make progress in this lifetime effort, we must see the world as it is, a world of different races, of different nations of different social systems—the real world, where man's many interests divide men and many unite them."

After Romanian Army band played the two nations' national anthems, Nixon delighted the crowd by greeting the Romanian honor guard in their native tongue.

"Good afternoon, soldiers," Nixon said.

They roared back, "Long live his excellency."

Nixon then walked past the long line of diplomats smiling demurely as he shook hands. As the two presidents mounted a platform, a large crowd craned to catch sight of the American president.

Tax Evasion Charged to Jacuzzi

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A warrant circular for the arrest of Candido Jacuzzi, 66, of Little Rock and California has been issued by the Internal Revenue Service.

Jacuzzi, president of a pump-making firm with sales headquarters in Little Rock, was indicted April 9 by a federal Grand Jury at San Francisco on five counts of evading income taxes during 1962-1966.

The indictments showed he owed $60,924 in taxes. Also, in separate civil action, the government has sued Jacuzzi for $1.2 million in taxes, interest and penalties, based on the contention that he failed to report $1.1 million income during 1962-1966.

Jacuzzi was reported to be in Italy on business, and the indictments were kept secret until May 15 because Jacuzzi was out of the country.

Jacuzzi Bros. Inc. at Little Rock had no comment Thursday.

Man Killed by Falling Tree

SHERIDAN, Ark. (AP) — Samuel Alfred Lee, 61, of Foyen (Grant County), was killed Thursday when hit by a falling tree he had cut down, Coroner Clyde Paulk said.

The tree had lodged against a smaller tree, and the big tree fell on him. Lee was an employee of a logging operator.

Europe Gives Trouble to Wheat Men

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As far as Nixon administration farm officials are concerned the bad guys in the barnyard these days are the wheat wheeler-dealers in the European Common Market who peddle surplus grain at cut-rate prices at the expense of the American farmer and taxpayer.

But the Common Market—with France as the main producer—is not alone in the fray. Skirmishes have been fought for months involving the United States, Canada, Australia and Argentina, and an all-out price war could break out momentarily.

All in all, the world has far more wheat than it can use or sell, and this has meant cut-throat competition for the meager markets which do exist.

Agriculture Department sources say, however, the Common Market is the biggest culprit, that it has flagrantly abused the controversial International Grains Arrangement which theoretically sets minimum prices for world wheat trade—and has nosed into traditional U. S. markets by offering cut-rate wheat.

However, the IGA was designed before the world market was glutted by huge crops in the major exporting nations. In addition, some of the historically big markets—India and Pakistan, for example—have started to produce more wheat of their own.

The U. S. wheat situation is particularly strained, officials say. Exports for the fiscal year that ended June 30 were only 542 million bushels—a third of 1968 farm production—compared with 761 million bushels the year before, or about half the output.

Another big crop—estimated at more than 1.4 billion bushels—is being harvested now.

On the average, the United States consumes less than half the wheat it produces annually. The rest must be exported or it winds up owned by the government and stored—sometimes for years—at taxpayer expense.

A decade ago, following bumper crops and so-so exports, U. S. surpluses rose to more than one billion bushels and cost taxpayers $500,000 a day simply to store the excess.

Thus, as American farmers continue to harvest near-record crops and exports dwindle, the stockpile grows. The wheat carryover June 30 was 811 million bushels, compared with 539 million a year earlier and the low mark of 425 million at mid-1967.

The government has cut farm acreage allotments sharply the past two years in an effort to curb production. The Nixon administration now is considering a further reduction for the 1970 crop.

But other big wheat countries have failed to reduce production, USDA officials say. And yet, they point out, France guarantees her wheat farmers a price support of about $2.50 a bushel or about double what U. S. producers receive.

On July 18 the United States dropped the first big bomb, announcing that the export price of hard red winter wheat—the kind in largest supply—would be cut 12 cents a bushel at Gulf and East Coast ports.

The price reduction did not affect wheat moving to the Far East and Latin America. The cut was aimed primarily at regaining some of the export trade with the Common Market itself, particularly for the hard winter wheat grown in Kansas and the remainder of the southern plains.

The Common Market has bought substantial amounts of hard spring wheat and durum for blending with the poorer quality European varieties.

B52's Strike Cong Bases Near Saigon

By RICHARD H. PYLE
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Buildings shook in Saigon today as B52 bombers struck with new fury at hidden enemy bases around the capital. One raid was just 17 miles southeast of the city, while others ranged as far away as Chau Doc Province, 125 miles to the west.

The big bombers had not struck so close to the capital since April 12, when they hit targets 14 miles away.

The B52s flew 11 raids Friday and four more early today, mainly around Saigon, the U.S. Command said. Ground action was light, but headquarters said U.S. fighter-bombers killed 10 North Vietnamese troops today while supporting American armored forces near Trang Bang, 30 miles northwest of the capital.

Military spokesmen said six Americans were killed today when a U.S. Army helicopter and an Air Force observation plane collided in flight 23 miles west of Chu Lai on South Vietnam's central coast.

They said the victims were the pilot of the plane, a propeller-driven O-2 and all five crewmen aboard the helicopter.

Communist gunners shelled only two targets Friday, and no damage or casualties were reported. It was the lowest number of shelling reported since May 30, when only one target was shelled.

The U.S. Command said a 750-man battalion of the 9th Infantry Division would leave for Hawaii Sunday as part of the current withdrawal of 25,000 troops ordered by President Nixon. The unit is the 2nd Battalion, 39th Infantry, which operated in the Mekong Delta.

The thunder of the bombs was heard in South Vietnam's second largest city, Da Nang, as bombs fell on enemy positions only 10 to 12 miles to the southwest.

Despite the battlefield lull, now in its seventh week, there has been no lull in the average number of B52 raids flown daily, although the number of planes taking part has been cut back in the last week by about 10 per cent.

U.S. sources said the cutback in sorties—one mission by one plane—was in keeping with a previously-announced Defense Department decision aimed at reducing certain costs and had no connection with the level of battlefield activity.

The sporadic battlefield activity included a clash between North Vietnamese troops and U.S. Army Rangers in the coastal province of Binh Thuan, 130 miles northeast of Saigon.

Two Americans and 24 North Vietnamese were killed in the 5½ hour fight, during which the Rangers were reinforced by American and South Vietnamese troops, U.S. spokesmen said. Six other Americans were wounded. Government losses were light, with no deaths, the spokesmen said.

Sheriff Says Funds Not Sufficient

LAKE VILLAGE, Ark. (AP) — Sheriff Max Brown of Chicot County said Thursday it would be impossible to finance his office from funds derived specifically for that purpose.

Brown commented after a suit was filed Wednesday in Chancery Court in Lake Village seeking a judgment of more than $25,000 from Brown.

The suit contends he diverted to his office funds from the collector's office, which he also held, thereby diminishing the collector's office fund excess which should have gone to school districts.

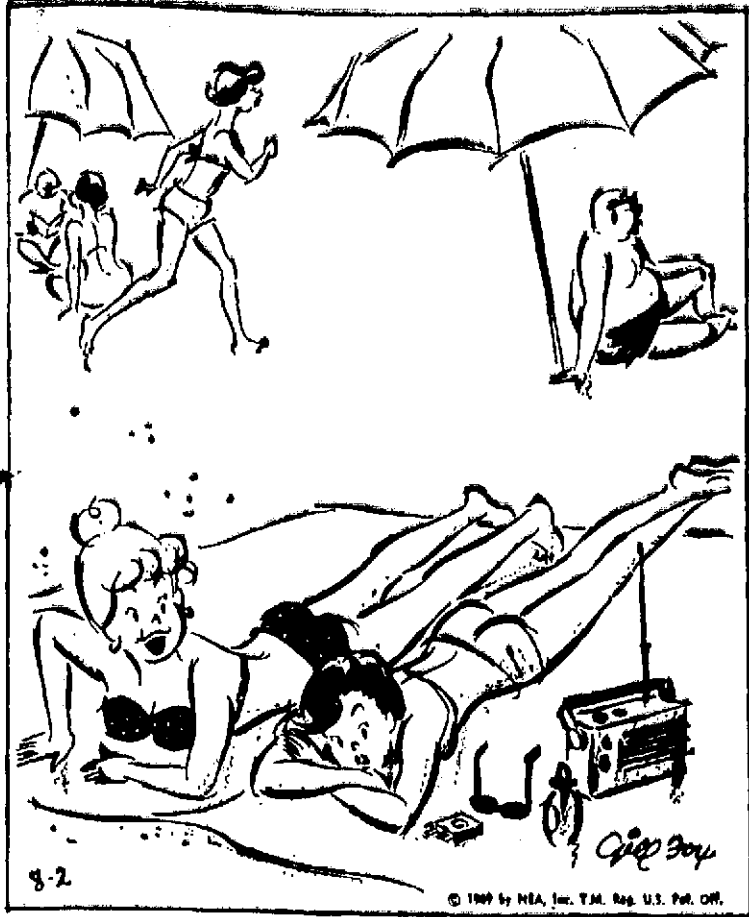

Brown said he wanted to make it clear that the suit does not allege that he took the money or used it for his personal use. The use of collector's funds for expenses of the sheriff's office is common practice in several counties, he said.

The state Supreme Court has held that the offices are separate offices.

Jets Take All Stars By 26-24

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Joe Namath was a thousand boos from Broadway, but he got enough passes out of his system to lead the New York Jets to a 26-24 football thriller over the College All-Stars.

In the vast Soldier Field arena Friday night, Broadway Joe made his first big public appearance of the season, only 10 days after reporting to camp. The crowd of 74,208 let him have it.

The brittle-legged hero of the Jets Super Bowl upset of the Baltimore Colts, returning to the pro football world from the biosphere, let the booing fall where it may. Playing until only the last five minutes of the game, he hit on 17 of 32 passes for 292 yards.

None of his shots went for a touchdown but they did much in setting up field goals for 43, 42, 18 and 16 yards by Jim Turner and scoring runs of three and 35 yards by Matt Snell.

"I wasn't throwing worth a flip, but at this stage I'm satisfied," said Namath. "How far off am I? About five games."

The cheers of this National Football League city crowd deservedly went mainly for the All-Stars quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati and streaking runners Albie Taylor of Utah State and Jerry Lewis of Southern Methodist.

They combined to nearly blow New York out of the jetstream in a last half spectacular when the collegians scored all their points.

Cook, property of the Cincinnati Bengals, came in after Terry Hanratty of Notre Dame and Bob Douglass of Kansas had been given shots at quarterback by head coach Otto Graham.

After Taylor raced back a jet kickoff 78 yards in the first six minutes of the third period to turn on the crowd, Cook hurried a 17-yard touchdown pass to Stan Givens of Stanford.

Later, Cook hit Taylor for 44 yards and then speared Bob Klein of Southern California for a 12-yard touchdown.

In the last 16 seconds of the game, Cook hooked up with Lewis on a 59-yard aerial and eventually hit him again with a 19-yard scoring shot.

Soccer-style placekicker Roy Gerela of New Mexico State booted the extra points and also added a 28-yard field goal.

In all, Cook completed 12 of 23 tosses for 241 yards to compensate for a sad All-Star running attack that withered before the Jet defense for a net ground gain of 16 yards.

The bird-dogging of Namath's pass receivers by Jim Marsalis of Tennessee State and Willie Thompson of Maryland State also drew applause. They were so eager, in fact, that several costly pass-interference penalties were called.

But probably the greatest achievement of the collegians must be credited to a remarkable goal-line stand early in the second quarter. On the one-yard line they held off two blasts from the rugged Snell, and one each from Emerson Boozer and Bill Mathis.

"That was one of the greatest goal-line stands I've ever seen in my years of coaching," said Arkansas Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseg-Shreveport.

Graham, who coached the All-Stars to their last victory in the series—over Green Bay in 1963—returned to the helm this time after leaving the Washington Redskins, declared "This is one of the greatest bunch of fellows I've had the honor to coach."

Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Jets said his team "could have had three touchdowns in the first period, but our execution was poor. I thought Namath did well for being in camp only 10 days."

Rookie Underwent Surgery

MONTREAL (AP) — Danny Houston, 19-year-old rookie halfback from New Mexico Military Institute, underwent surgery for torn ligaments in his left knee Thursday and will be lost to the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League for six to eight weeks.

Astros Win 5-3 Over Montreal

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
The top of the National League's West Division is getting more crowded than a subway during the rush hour. But any veteran of the commuter wars can tell you there's always room for one more sardine so the Houston Astros are climbing aboard.

The fifth place Astros won their sixth consecutive game Friday night, whipping Montreal 5-3 on a pair of two-run homers by Curt Blefary and a bases-empty shot by Jimmy Wynn. The victory, combined with Atlanta's 5-4 loss at New York, left the Astros a mere 3½ games from the top.

In between Houston and Atlanta, three other teams are bunched. San Francisco and Cincinnati both won Friday and are separated by just five percentage points, both one game behind the Braves. The second place Reds held off Philadelphia 7-6 and the Giants took Pittsburgh 5-1.

Fourth place Los Angeles absorbed a 7-2 licking from St. Louis and remained two games back. San Diego, the division's only also-ran, dropped a 5-2 decision to Chicago in the NL's other Friday game.

In the American League, Minnesota edged Baltimore 4-3 in 10 innings, Oakland topped Boston 4-3, Kansas City shut out Cleveland 6-0, Detroit blanked Chicago 8-0, Washington trimmed California 5-3 and New York beat Seattle 4-2.

Blefary followed Wynn's 25th homer in the first inning with his first two-run job, staking Houston to a quick lead. He connected again in the sixth, upping his total for the season to seven.

Denny Lemaster coasted to the victory, disturbed only by a pair of unearned runs in the sixth when the Astros committed three errors.

Yastrzemski Is Fined For Loafing

By DICK COUCH

Dick Williams took $500 out of Carl Yastrzemski's pocket. Billy Martin settled for the shirt off Earl Weaver's back. Boston Manager Williams yanked Yastrzemski for loafing on the basepaths during the Red Sox' 4-3 loss to Oakland Friday night and then fined the American League's 1968 batting champion $500.

Minnesota Manager Martin caught two Baltimore pitchers with tattered shirtsleeves, evening an old score with Orioles' pitcher Weaver, as the Twins won a 10-inning battle of AL division leaders 4-3.

Meanwhile, Detroit's Denny McLain, in a hospital with bronchitis two days ago, bounced back to become the first 16-game winner in the majors as the Tigers mauled the Chicago White Sox 8-0.

Elsewhere, the New York Yankees stopped Seattle 4-2 on a combined two-hitter by rookie Bill Burbach and veteran Ken Johnson; Washington scored three runs in the ninth for a 5-3 victory over California and Kansas City blanked Cleveland 6-0 behind rookie Dick Drago's five-hitter.

In the National League, Cincinnati topped Philadelphia 7-6; San Francisco trimmed Pittsburgh 5-1; the New York Mets shaded Atlanta 5-4; St. Louis whipped Los Angeles 7-2; Houston beat Montreal 5-3 and the Chicago Cubs took San Diego 5-2.

The Red Sox scored two first inning runs for Jim Lonborg at Oakland but lost a chance for more when Yastrzemski was thrown out at the plate on George Scott's bases-loaded roller, which could have gone for an infield hit.

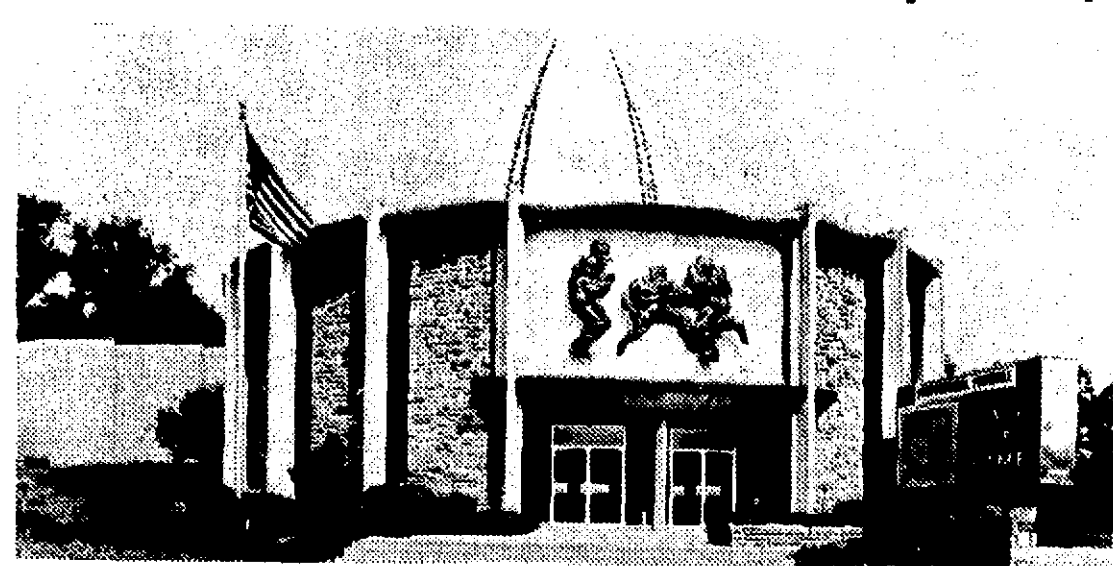

Williams pulled Yastrzemski in the second inning and the Athletics finally caught up with Lonborg in a three-run ninth inning flurry capped by Dick Green's tie-breaking single.

Pro Football's Hall of Fame Finally Shoots The Money Gap

EXTERIOR and interior views of pro football's Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio.

By MARTY RALBOVSKY
NEA Sports Writer

CANTON, OHIO—(NEA)—Unlike its baseball counterpart in Cooperstown, N.Y., the pro football Hall of Fame here in this north-central Ohio community does not go big on security.

Its exhibits of memorabilia are not displayed behind glass and there are no padlocks or Pinkertons around to mar the Taj Mahalish atmosphere. It is inevitable, therefore, that when visitors stream down the spiral staircase after completing a day of nostalgic browsing that some of the exhibits discreetly leave the premises with them.

On a recent Sunday, someone snatched the white-and-green cap Weeb Ewbank wore last January when his New York Jets beat the Baltimore Colts in the Super Bowl and, a day later, someone else dipped into the Ernie Nevers display and walked off with one of the faded yellow wool socks he once wore as a Chicago Cardinal.

The situation, of course, has become irritating to the people who run the Hall of Fame but, they say, not until someone carts off the 500-pound statue of Jim Thorpe in the lobby will it compare to the other crises they have faced since first opening the doors to their $600,000 building on Ohio Route 77 in September, 1963.

Running a Hall of Fame, it seems, is more than just record books and reminiscence. It's money, too.

The Hall, itself, has been bobbing in a pool of red ink since it opened. Attendance never reached the projected goals and, in fact, actually decreased with each succeeding year. The Hall of Fame Game, staged annually on adjacent Fawcett Field and a prime source of revenue, also drew poorly and, eventually, the entire financial quagmire was plopped into the lap of pro football's most eminent crisis-solver, Pete Rozelle.

Rozelle subsequently sat down with each of the 26 pro teams and worked out a new arrangement for subsidizing the Hall. Now, each of the NFL and AFL clubs will contribute $100,000 to keep it going and erase, hopefully, the specter of financial insolvency. Next, Rozelle decided, the Hall of Fame needed more public exposure and—presto!—the position of public relations director was created.

The job went to Don Smith, a former publicist for the Denver Broncos and New Orleans Saints, who immediately started cranking out press releases, arranging group tours and hopped-scotch the country to inform the world that, yes, there is a Canton, Ohio, and yes, only there can you find Sammy Baugh's original football shoes, now preserved for the ages in bronze.

Selling a museum, Smith has found, is considerably different from selling a real live-in-the-flesh team.

"One of our biggest jobs," he says, "is identifying each of our enshrined as Hall of Famers, like baseball does. Baseball does a great job in that area. Never do you

For Single Players All The Swinging Isn't On the Field

By JOYCE GABRIEL

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Ken Holtzman, the tall, dark and good-looking Chicago Cubs pitcher, was finally trapped. Three months of unanswered phone calls, letters and frantic cab rides and he was caught at Shea Stadium—sitting outside the Cubs' clubhouse.

Ken Holtzman wasn't scared, but he was suspicious. Here was this dame bothering him for an interview, trying to find out about his personal life.

"What do you want to know about, my sex life?" asked Holtzman.

Then he grinned. He was playing it for laughs.

"Being a sports bachelor is like," Holtzman began, "it's like being a bachelor. Lots of dates, lots of parties, lots of girls." He tilted his cap and looked smug.

But Mr. Holtzman, you once said being a sports bachelor makes Peyton Place look like a bunt.

Holtzman blushed. "I said that?" he asked incredulously. Then he grinned. "Yeah, I said that," he admitted.

"You see, in Chicago, I live in an apartment complex near the airport—there are about 10 guys and the rest of the tenants are airline stewardesses. We have some pretty wild times."

"I get letters from girls, too. Most of them sound really bad. But some of them send pictures, and if they're pretty, I'll call them when I'm in town. One girl gave me a tour of San Francisco."

"I got one funny letter. It was from a little boy, writing to me about his sister. He thought his sister and I would get along, any way he wanted me to marry her because he'd like me for a brother-in-law. The kid told me all about this girl—how tall she was, how much she weighed. But what really hooked me was when he added, 'She's had her teeth fixed, too.' I called her, just to meet the kid who wrote the letter."

"What do you do on a date?" he was asked.

"What do you do on a date?" he shot back, and for an instant there was a hint of a leer on his face. Then hear Rogers Hornsby, for example, described as a "former St. Louis Cardinal." He's always "Hall of Famer Rogers Hornsby." To this day, people always refer to Red Grange, for instance, as the "former Illinois great." We want him to become known as Hall of Famer Red Grange.

"It's all a matter of establishing our own identity as the official home of pro football. When sports fans think of Cooperstown, immediately the baseball Hall of Fame pops into their minds. We want people to think the same way about Canton, but we also know it's going to take time. Low attendance has been a problem, but the way things are going this year it looks as if 1969 will be the best year the Hall of Fame ever had."

CHICAGO—(NEA)—Charlotte Drake, a pulchritudinous, modern-day version of Susan B. Anthony, has set out with a ferocious wiggle to combat man's inhumanity to woman.

She is carrying her fight into the sports arena, a rather unlikely setting for a woman of her charms, or even one without her charms, for that matter.

Miss Drake, who has had television experience in assorted fields, wants to be a sportscaster. She has met with resistance, from TV producers to Luscious Lars Anderson, the so-called wrestler.

"Women," she said, whisking an indignant curl back into her blonde coiffure, "are being totally ignored by the television sports people."

"By mere percentages, more women buy the products that are advertised on television than men. In fact, more women watch television than men. So what's the result? All we hear about are sore arms and batting averages. We're a captive audience."

"The least they could do is tell us what a squeeze play is." (An editor's courtly note must be inserted here. A squeeze play, Miss Drake, usually ends up with a cop shining a flashlight into the surprised eyes of a parked couple.)

"And," she went on, "the

COMING AND GOING

AMN Terry Don Verge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Williamson is home from Chanute, Illinois, on leave. He will be spending several weeks with his parents and will go to Madrid, Spain where he will be stationed.

Mr. and Mrs. Marcus E. Johnson, grandson of Mrs. Mary Johnson spent a two day visit and had an enjoyable dinner with their cousin Mrs. Sally Dixon. They will spend six weeks in Arizona before school and returning to their home in Thailand.

SMITH—NEAL NUPTIAL VOWS EXCHANGED

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Neal of Texarkana, Texas was the setting for the wedding of their daughter, Donald Kaye Neal to Calvin Smith, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith of Ogden, Arkansas. The wedding took place July 26, at 8 p.m.

Edward Lee Smith of 304 East 9th street, Hope, Arkansas served as best man while his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Jean Smith served in the capacity of Matron of Honor.

Rev. Forte of Nash, Texas officiated at the double ring ceremony. The reception followed in the dining room of the Bride's home. The two tiered wedding cake was decorated with flowers and the traditional bride and mother.

"I used to get letters from Jewish mothers," he confessed, "when I had a 10-1 record, but they're not writing any more."

sportscasters should inform us about the players' wives—you know, who's pregnant, how the kids are doing in school, does her bum of a husband throw out the garbage like he's supposed to?

"I also think that the lives of the players should be more personalized for women fans. What kind of girl, say, would Joe Namath like to marry. There are people interested in this kind of information. You see, women are more romantic and sentimental than men. So you know what we get? The record for most sacrifice fly balls in a game. Ugh and blah."

Recently, Miss Drake stalked up to Minneapolis to do a TV pilot with wrestlers on a program tentatively entitled, "The Beauty and the Beasts." She was to interview wrestlers, like Anderson, Wilbur Snyder, Dr. X, Vern Gagne, Pretty Boy Hennig and Cowboy Bill Watts, and also call some of the grunt-by-grunt.

"I was at ringside," she recalled, "and I was watching one wrestler with bare feet sticking his toes into his opponent's ears—my God! Imagine that! Why, I'd wear a helmet in there. Well, I was describing all this when these guys started tumbling my way. I got up and started running off. I mean, who wants 500 pounds in your lap? So the guy I'm announcing with hollers, 'Hey Charlotte, where you going?'"

"But I came back and later interviewed the wrestlers. They're really nice guys, not like their public image. Of course they do scream a lot. They were a little shook at being interviewed by a woman. It's never been done before. Dr. X was even stunned into silence. But later he got his voice back, and I heard him screaming, 'O.K., where's that broad? I'm ready for her.'"

"But I did find out some interesting things about them. For example, did you know that Cowboy Bill Watts is in the cosmetics business on the outside? He doesn't like people to know that—not exactly his image, you know."

For another TV sports pilot, she interviewed wives of Chicago Cubs players and found out from Eloise Banks that her husband, Ernie, is terribly absent-minded.

"It's a regular thing," Mrs. Banks told Miss Drake, "that Ernie will call me at 5:30 and tell me there's a banquet that night." Not long ago, Ernie did it again. Eloise showed up in a pants-suit and the affair was formal.

"If we weren't in public," said Mrs. Banks, "I would have kicked my dear Ernie."

Sturgis Sells to Georgia- Pacific

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — Georgia-Pacific's Crossett Division said today it had acquired the Sturgis Corp. timberlands in Miller County.

Involved are about 19,000 acres of pine timberlands near Texarkana. The Sturgis family has been actively engaged in timber management and forest products manufacturing in Arkansas since the early 1900s.

The company said the lands would be managed on a sustained yield basis to support the company's Fordyce plywood operations.
